

Educator Biographies

Pippa Lawlor DCRR BEd MEd MIGHT MIFHB MATL MFHT Museum Educator

Pippa is a UK-trained secondary school teacher with over 15 years of classroom teaching experience. She has previously held a number of responsibility posts include Subject team leader and Faculty Head and, in addition to a number of degrees, holds a management qualification.

Pippa's background is in Technology and she teaches graphics, resistant materials, textiles, electronics, systems & control, ICT and food technology. Prior to her teaching career, she worked as a radiographer and has worked in A&E as well as forensic and archaeological fields. Pippa has also run her own businesses in textile design, recruitment, leisure and hospitality management.

Pippa has worked as a trainer and educator for a number of private tuition organizations in the UK, Ukraine and Ireland and has appeared in a number of educational training films and DVDs. Her textile work has been featured on television and she has had articles published in several newspapers and educational magazines in the UK.

Anne Juddery

Anne trained at both Ardmore Training College and Thames Polytechnic (London University) where she received her degree in Education.

Anne has a wealth of teaching experience, having taught in diverse places such as New Zealand, United Kingdom, East Africa, Japan, Thailand, Kuwait and Qatar. She has held the position of School Principal in four schools.

Anne has particular expertise in literacy, having been a Schools Literacy Advisor in the U.K., and lectured in literacy as an International Consultant and publisher in the U.K., U.S.A., Australia and Pacific regions.

For the last six years she has been a volunteer at Whangarei Museum and Kiwi House, working in the archives, researching and designing exhibition displays. Anne also writes a weekly newspaper column about the Museum collection called "Our Treasures".

Anne works as a part-time educator at the Museum with special expertise in social history.